TRANSFORMING PRIMARY CARE FOR LGBT PEOPLE

Disseminating Knowledge and Awareness of LGBT Health Best Practices in Primary Care

Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender (LGBT) patients often experience negative health outcomes due to stigma, prohibitive laws and policies, demographic factors, and barriers to care. As health centers implement policies to promote cultural competency and a welcoming environment for LGBT patients, primary care providers have an increasing need for further training and support to address this population's unique health needs.

Designed for primary care providers by primary care providers, Project ECHO[®] LGBT Health fulfills this need with twice monthly videoconference sessions where primary care providers will receive specific recommendations on challenging cases from an expert, multidisciplinary faculty and build knowledge on topics such as HIV prevention and care, taking a comprehensive sexual health history, conceiving and raising families, and behavioral health.

Project ECHO[®] LGBT aims to:

-  Encourage public health and primary care collaboration
-  Support integration of care
-  Improve knowledge and self-efficacy
-  Promote the adoption of best practices
